Appeal from the United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas
USDC No. L-99-CV-85
- - - - -

January 10, 2002

Before DAVIS, BENAVIDES, and STEWART, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM:*

Olga Villanueva appeals the district court's judgment affirming the denial of her application for disability insurance benefits and supplemental security income. Villanueva contends that the determination of the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") regarding her disability status was not supported by substantial evidence. Specifically, she asserts that the ALJ erred in relying upon the objective findings rather than upon her subjective complaints of pain, disregarding the medical evidence submitted after her administrative hearing, failing to utilize the correct standard in determining the severity of her impairments, and determining that she had no residual impairments from her hernia and varicose vein surgical procedures.

Based on our review of the record, the ALJ's decisions regarding Villanueva's complaints of pain, the severity of her impairments, and the existence of residual impairments from her surgical procedures were supported by substantial evidence. See Leggett v. Chater, 67 F.3d 558, 564 (5th Cir. 1995). The record also shows that the ALJ fully developed the record and considered all of the medical evidence submitted before his decision.
