ELIAS H. SALAMEH,
Plaintiff-Appellant,

VERSUS

SAUDI ARABIAN AIRLINES,
Defendant-Appellee.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Southern District of Texas

(May 5, 1995)

Before SMITH, EMILIO M. GARZA, and PARKER, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM:*

Elias H. Salameh appeals the dismissal, for want of jurisdiction, of his title VII claim against Saudi Arabian Airlines. We affirm.

Salameh, a citizen of Jordan, applied for a job as a pilot to be stationed in Saudi Arabia. The job interview occurred in Houston, Texas. Salameh claims he was denied employment because

* Local Rule 47.5.1 provides: "The publication of opinions that have no precedential value and merely decide particular cases on the basis of well-settled principles of law imposes needless expense on the public and burdens on the legal profession." Pursuant to that rule, the court has determined that this opinion should not be published.

Title VII, in 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-1(a), states that "[t]his subchapter shall not apply to an employer with respect to the employment of aliens outside of any State." Plainly, there is no jurisdiction here, as Salameh undeniably was an alien applying for a job abroad.

The judgment, accordingly, is AFFIRMED.
